What are the risks associated with online tuition?

Technology can be a powerful, positive tool, in all areas of life, including education and learning and enables people to do many things that would not otherwise be possible.

Keeping Children Safe In Education lists four areas of risks that all staff should be aware of:

- content: being exposed to illegal, inappropriate or harmful content, for example: pornography, fake news, racism, misogyny, self-harm, suicide, anti-Semitism, radicalisation and extremism.
- contact: being subjected to harmful online interaction with other users; for example: peer to peer pressure, commercial advertising and adults posing as children or young adults with the intention to groom or exploit them for sexual, criminal, financial or other purposes’.
- conduct: personal online behaviour that increases the likelihood of, or causes, harm; for example, making, sending and receiving explicit images (e.g consensual and non-consensual sharing of nudes and semi-nudes and/or pornography, sharing other explicit images and online bullying; and
- commerce: risks such as online gambling, inappropriate advertising, phishing and or financial scams. If you feel your pupils, students or staff are at risk, please report it to the Anti-Phishing Working Group (<https://apwg.org/>).

Reviewed April 2022– Next review October 2022 or in the event of staffing, policy, or legislative changes.

Technology does not cause people to behave badly – however, some people use technology to cause harm for example:

- bullying/cyberbullying
- emotional abuse
- sharing of inappropriate images
- sexual abuse e.g., children and young people can also be groomed online: criminals may use online platforms to build a trusting relationship with the victim to abuse them.

It can happen anywhere online that allows digital communication, such as:

- social networking sites and platforms
- email, text messages and messaging apps
- comments on blogs, videos, online chats
- gaming platforms

Preventative measures

As a school providing online tuition, International House Manchester has a responsibility to effectively prevent and address harmful behaviour, and promote positive and constructive uses of technology.

When enrolling, students are given an official school e-mail address and temporary password. This is included in their welcome letter. This email can be used to access class materials on Microsoft Teams and communicate with their teachers on Teams or via e-mail.

New staff are also given an official school e-mail address and temporary password. This email can be used to share class materials on Microsoft Teams, communicate with students and staff by e-mail and communicate with other members of staff on Microsoft Teams. When logging into Microsoft Teams for the first time, students and staff will be asked to change their temporary password into their own personal password.

Finally, IH Manchester operates an open-door policy in terms of class observations. It means that academic managers regularly join classes to carry out formal observations as well as informal checks.
